The truth will set you free. You are not alone.

The results of the latest Rasmussen Reports poll shows that most Americans believe that US elections are impacted by cheating. Yes, that's 60%!

According to Rasmussen Reports:

A majority of voters suspect recent elections have been affected by cheating, and believe officials are ignoring the problem.

The latest Rasmussen Reports national telephone and online survey finds that 60% of Likely U.S. voters think it is likely that cheating affected the outcomes of some races in last year's midterm elections, including 37% who say it's Very Likely. Thirty-five percent (35%) don't believe it's likely the 2022 midterms were affected by cheating, including 20% who think it's Not At All Likely. (To see survey question wording, click here.)

Rasmussen Reports shared these results Thursday.

Rasmussen shared the results for individual questions as well.

- 40% say it's important to prevent election cheating
- 50% say Mail-in voting makes it easier to cheat
- 48% say cheating affected some 2022 races
- 50% say state & election officials are ignoring widespread evidence of election fraud
